What are the benefits of attending SICTC?

There are many benefits of students attending SICTC. Most programs are taught by people that have spent time in their industry in which they are teaching. This gives students the opportunity to learn a set of skills that will uniquely prepare them for their next step into college or career. Students also learn on state of the art equipment that rivals many college labs. Every program offers college credit and some offer industry credentials. There is great opportunity for students to find or continue educational success at SICTC.
